MONDAY, MAY 2, 1910

The Capital understands that there is considerable impatience among the settlers of that splendid district lying to the northwest of Edmonton, towards the Pembina and Paddle rivers, owing to the delay in furnishing them with railway facilities. There is no question about the hardship of their case. But it is only fair that they should understand who is to blame. The government entered into an arrangement, over a year ago with the Canadian Northern to build fifty miles in that direction. It was to have this line constructed with a certain time to hold the guarantee. That it has failed to carry out this bargain as well as to build into the country to the northeast of the city is a matter of great regret. But it is difficult to see what can be done to force them to make the move. To Edmonton the C. N. R.'s failure to go on with this work means a very serious loss. Just at present the citizens are suffering from this habit all the three principal railways have acquired, the C. P. R., the G. T. P., and the C. N. R., of making bargains to carry out some necessary bit of enterprise and then going ahead with it when they are good and ready. The only railway which showed any desire to open up new country for the city and to act in good faith with the province was the A. & G. W. But no sooner had it made a fair start at its work than some Edmontonians started to talk about the folly of dealing with a new company and declaring that the government should have waited for one of the others to take over the contract. They hardly speak, however, for the majority of the people either in the city and the country, who want to see railways constructed without delay and are rather tired of the dilly-dallying of those corporations, the solemn promises and agreements of which apparently mean nothing.

The Dominion government has guaranteed the C. N. R. line to the Brazeau river for $25,000 per mile for one hundred miles. Why doesn't Mr. Cushing volunteer to save the authorities at Ottawa from such stupendous folly by volunteering to build the line for $16,000 a mile? Having shown such public spirit where only a $20,000 guarantee was involved, surely he wouldn't hesitate at one of $25,000.

The Dominion government has guaranteed a large number of lines in Saskatchewan. That of the C. N. R. to the Brazeau river (100 miles at $25,000 per mile) is the only one in this vicinity that the Ottawa authorities have extended their generosity to. Its only object is to enable the C. N. R. to get cheaper coal for its engines. It is being constructed in response to no public demand. Why should Mr. Oliver be willing to oblige the C. N. R. to the extent that he does and turn a deaf ear to the request of the Edmonton Board of Trade for aid for a line to the Peace River?

DESPERATE TACTICS

Having failed up to the present to bring along the boomers, they led the public to expect, Mr. Bennett and his associates are evidently growing desperate. This is very apparent in connection with the evidence of Frederick Emmerson before the commission at Winnipeg. This witness came closer to making personal charges against members of the administration than anyone else who has figured on the controversy up to date. His story will repay careful reading. What he had to say, it should be borne in mind, had to do with the Athabasca Syndicate, not with the Waterways proposition. The government turned the former down, so it is difficult to understand how any charge against it in connection with that proposal could hold. However, notice what Mr. Emmerson had to say. He declared that he understood that all of the $54,000 stock, which Mr. Cornwall was to get, if the deal went through, was not to go to him but to be divided among "political parties." He admits that this impression he had received wholly from Mr. Faulkner. How much reliability was to be placed upon Mr. Faulkner's representations, if we are to believe Mr. Emmerson, is evident from another part of his evidence. He told of the entrance into the case of Mr. Parkin of Calgary. He was represented to him by Mr. Faulkner as the Liberal organizer in Alberta. The people in the court room picked up their ears immediately, we are told. The dispatches in regard to the proceedings had emphasis on the alleged fact that the Liberal organizer was a party to these transactions. Here was clear evidence, surely, of what everyone had been looking for all this time. But investigation in Calgary now proves that Mr. Parkin, far from being the Liberal organizer for Alberta, was organizer in words two and four in the southern city for Mr. R. B. Bennett, in the last provincial election. The Calgary Albertan must surely have known this. If it didn't, ordinary newspaper instinct would lead it to investigate into Mr. Parkin's career. But instead of doing so it gave prominence on its front page to the statement that "a Liberal organizer for Alberta" had been mixed up in the deal. Was this honest? Did it show a desire not to mislead? And how about Mr. Bennett? He certainly must have known that Mr. Parkin was his own organizer. Yet he let Mr. Emmerson's statement go out to the commission and the public without making any attempt to deny it. So crude an attempt to mislead public opinion is hardly worthy of its originators.

Sages say that the dark cloud that is worrying Edmonton so much is not the coming of the colored population, but the dusky atmosphere caused by Lethbridge eclipsing Edmonton in the race for second place.

LOCKED UP HIS OWN SON

New York Police Official Shown Spartan-Like Qualities in Doing His Duty.

New York, April 30.—Lieut. Edmund Blaney, sitting at the desk in the Atlantic avenue police station, Brooklyn, proved himself a Spartan-like father yesterday, when he caused his own son to be locked up on a charge of disorderly conduct.

Lieut. William J. Eggers, well known as the head of the old vice squad raiders in Manhattan several years ago, and now attached to the Atlantic avenue station, was out on patrol yesterday morning, when he found two men in a street brawl at Fulton street and Brooklyn avenue. They resisted his efforts to part them and one of the men told the officer he was a police lieutenant's son and "couldn't be arrested." Eggers grasped the men and took them to the station house.

The face of Lieut. Blaney, many years a policeman and with a good record, blanched when he saw the prisoners haul'd before him.

"Disorderly conduct," said Lieut. Eggers.

Repressing his emotions the desk lieutenant took the prisoners' pedigrees with the customary question, "Search them and lock them up," he said, and the man who arrested them and the doorman led them away to the cells. Later in the Gates avenue court sentence was suspended on what Mr. Magistrate Hyland. A difference of opinion regarding the fist abilities of Jeffries and Johnson caused their clash.

HOW BUYERS ARE LOSERS MALTA TO BE HIS COMMAND

Majority of Package Goods are Short Measure. Kitchener will not be Given Charge of Home Forces.

INCREASED COST OF LIVING WAS MADE A FIELD MARSHAL

Interesting Evidence Given by United States Federal Superintendent of Weights and Measures. King Edward Handed him the Baton at an Audience at Buckingham Palace on Saturday.

Washington, May 2.—Short weight packages and secret agreements between wholesalers and retailers are responsible in large measure for the increased cost of living, according to the testimony given before the house committee on the district of Columbia by Dr. William C. Woodward, health officer of the district, and Col. William C. Haskell, superintendent of weights and measures. "Every one of the 300,000 barrels of flour sold in the district annually," said Col. Haskell, "is short at least four pounds. This would amount to about 1,200,000 pounds in a year, and with the average price of flour at 25 cents a pound the people of the district are annually paying about $400,000 for flour in the increased cost of living." "There should be national legislation to prohibit this sort of thing. Selling by packages should be subject to inspection unless the packages show the weight of the contents."

Col. Haskell said that practically every package sold in grocery stores is from one to four ounces short of the weight which the purchaser believes he is paying for. "Would it be practicable to label each package with the weight of the contents?" asked Mr. Moore, chairman of the investigating committee. "Such action," replied Col. Haskell, "would not only be in the interest of the public, but also in the interest of the retailer. The retailer has to take what he gets from the manufacturer just as the public has to take what it gets from the retailer. The source of the trouble is with the manufacturer."

"Do these short weight packages account for the increased cost of living?" asked Mr. Moore. "Perhaps not entirely," replied Col. Haskell, "but in a large measure." Col. Haskell said that only rarely do purchasers of whiskey get full pints, half pints and quarts. The pint bottles, he said, are usually two ounces short and the quarts are ordinarily three and four ounces short.

Men Can't Wear Corsets

New York, May 2.—Corsets for young college students who must take the part of women in college theatricals have been officially tabooed by the dramatic director of New York University actors. The prohibition against tight-lacing follows an incident which broke up the dress rehearsal of a college show last night when W. H. Judd, a university undergraduate, who was playing a girl's part, suffered an attack of syncope and was unconscious for several minutes as the result of wearing for two hours a tight fitting feminine corset beneath his costume.

Hon. James Bryce's Advice

Lawrence, May 2.—"Three-fourths of the mistakes that a man makes are made because he doesn't really know the thing he thinks he knows," said Hon. James Bryce, in a speech delivered here last night. Mr. Bryce urged upon his hearers the necessity of knowing history, ancient as well as modern, and the habit of sound, careful and independent thinking was the best intellectual quality a young man should start with in life's journey. Mr. Bryce's subject was the educational advancement in the United States.

Electricity in War

Berlin, May 2.—The Kruppss of Essen have circulated a private and confidential memorandum among scientific experts for an invention which will project electrical energy to a distance. The basic idea is to direct powerful electrical currents into the bags of hail and explode them; also to direct this current into the magazines of warships. Many brains are concentrated on the problem and experts believe it will be the development of warfare. Success would mean the destruction at one stroke of the world's aerial and marine dreadnoughts.

Just Good Enough To Be Dangerous

If poor advertising mediums were ENTIRELY worthless they would not be dangerous! For they could not, then, make any appeal whatever to sensible advertisers.

But an advertising medium which has a LITTLE MERIT is, like "a little knowledge," a "dangerous thing." Some business men there are, always, who--for considerations of "cheapness," etc.,--will either rely upon such mediums wholly, or give hem an absurdly large part in their advertising campaigns.

PARIS PUBLIC TROUBLE BAIT

Two Boulevardiers Get Money From Public Easily and Win Bet.

Paris, April 30.—An amusing story of the gullibility of the public has just come to light. Two boulevardiers bet a friend $200 that by inserting three advertisements of three lines in papers in the course of a week they would receive $200 without giving any explanation or making any promise to the senders. On a Saturday the following advertisement appeared: "Intelligent persons will send five francs to such an address."

On the Wednesday the insertion ran:

"All five francs posted after tomorrow will be inexorably refused."

The third, on the following Saturday, was:

"Last possible day is Sunday. Send your five francs before noon, or rehearsal." By Sunday morning seventy-five postal orders for five francs each had come in, and the next morning eighty-two more arrived. The gullible public had sent in not $200 in a week, but $825. Having proved their point and won their bet, the two boulevardiers naturally returned the postal orders to the ingenious senders.

THE PORT OF MISSING MEN

By MEREDITH NICHOLSON.

Author of "The House of a Thousand Candles"

COPYRIGHT, 1907, BY THE BOBB'S-MERRILL COMPANY

Armitage arrested him with a gesture. "My name is Armitage—John Armitage," he said. "I advise you to remember it. Now go!"

The man hurried away, and Armitage slowly followed.

It occurred to him that the man might be of use, and with this in mind

Armitage followed him to the door of the hotel where he was staying.

"Don't you know me? I am Oscar."

Armitage put aside his coat and hat, and the man bowed, and then, when the two stood face to face in the little sitting room, he surveyed the man carefully.

"What do you want?" he demanded bluntly.

He took a cigarette from a box on the table, lighted it and then, with an air of finality, fixed his gaze upon the man, who eyed him with a kind of stupefied wonder.

Then he dashed into the fellow's bureau face something of dignity and resentment. He stood perfectly erect, with his feet flat, his hands at his sides.

"I want nothing, Mr. Armitage," he replied humbly, speaking slowly and with a marked German accent.

"Then you will be easily satisfied," said Armitage. "You said your name was—"

"Oscar—Oscar Brenneke."

Armitage sat down and scrutinized the man again without relaxing his severity.

"You think you have seen me somewhere, so you have followed me in the streets to make sure. When did this idea first occur to you?"

"I saw you at Fort Meyer at the drill last Friday. I have been looking for you since, and I saw you yesterday at the hotel this afternoon. You ride at Rock creek—yes?"

"What do you do for a living, Mr. Brenneke?" said Armitage.

"I was in the army, but served out my time and was discharged a few months ago and came to Washington to see where they make the government—yes? I am going to South America. Is it Peru—yes? There will be a revolution."

He paused, and Armitage met his eyes. They were very blue and kind, eyes that spoke of sincerity and fidelity, such eyes as a lover of fortune might have given to know where he might be given the order to charge.

Then a curious thing happened. It was as if the man's eyes were eyes that spoke of sincerity and fidelity, such eyes as a lover of fortune might have given to know where he might be given the order to charge.

"Oscar?" he said, and repeated very softly, "Oscar?"

The man was deeply moved, and tears sprang into his eyes. Armitage laughed, holding him at arm's length.

"None of that nonsense! Sit down!" he said, and the man obeyed.

"You have done well, Oscar," he said, and the man bowed, and then, when the two stood face to face in the little sitting room, he surveyed the man carefully.

"You are not dead—Mr. Armitage, but your father—"

"My father is dead," said the man, and the man bowed, and then, when the two stood face to face in the little sitting room, he surveyed the man carefully.

"Yes, he was a good man," repeated Armitage gravely. "I am alive, and he is dead. Oscar. Do you understand?"

Armitage followed him to the door of the hotel where he was staying.

the handling of a new section of a shanty and otherwise beautifies the surroundings, will have the first call from the man who wishes to establish himself in a home district that presents at least a few essentials of civic beauty.

"I say this is one of the tendencies of the times, and it is a most commendable one. It is because of this tendency toward the beautiful in home building that I maintain that the real estate man above all others should be interested in furthering the work of the American Civic Association."

"What is the situation today? It has come to pass that the subdivision of the city into the modest workman, to the man of small and limited means, must provide restrictions as to the nature of construction that will be permitted in that section, and restrictions that will preserve the district along the lines of home-like beauty."

"The real estate man who does not assure his client that his neighbor's homes will not be of so inferior a grade that they will prove an eyesore—that the house next door will not be built out near the sidewalk line and thus obstruct his view—that real estate man is going to experience no little difficulty in disposing of his subdivision."

"And the real estate man who, in addition to all this, plants rows of shade trees in his subdivision; lays out beds of beautiful flowers and

Stunt Not on Programme
New York, April 30.—George Holland, a clown with the Barnum & Bailey circus, which will open in Brooklyn today at Third street and Fifth street, dropped a box of cartridges that he was carrying from his tent yesterday and the cartridges exploded, Holland fell into the box and the flying bullets pierced the lobes of both his ears.

Holland thought that he had been shot in the leg, too, but an ambulance surgeon from St. Vincent hospital said that the clown was uninjured except as to his ears.

Once Wealthy, Died Poor
Chicago, April 30.—Edgar Pierce, 82 formerly a wealthy silk merchant in the east, died here in a back room in the tenement district.

Pierce came here ten years ago. Soon after his arrival he became engaged, it is said, to a young woman, who defrauded him out of his fortune of $30,000.

There is a long line of machines that save labor and make money for the farmer. But you are not operating them to the best advantage if you do not have a reliable power.

Cream separators, feed cutters, corn shellers and wood saws are valuable machines for the farm, but no one of them is complete in itself. Each requires a power to operate it.

Here is the great advantage of having one of the simple, powerful, dependable I. H. C. gasoline engines on the farm.

An I. H. C. engine is not a machine for just one duty, like a churn or a pump. It is a machine of many duties. It enables you to operate all other machines to best advantage.

Its duties extend all through the year and it is used almost every day in the year.

It costs but a few cents a day to operate an I. H. C. engine. Many times it saves the wages of a man, and in some work the wages of a number of men. Estimate what it costs you for extra help at $1.00 or $2.00 per day because you have no power, and you will see how rapidly an I. H. C. engine pays for itself.

There are some engines that work that you cannot do at all by hand—running the cutter, shredder, threshing machine, etc.

I. H. C. engines are strong, simple and easy to understand. We know the design to be the best, and we know that every detail of construction is correct. This is proved to our own satisfaction by giving every engine a thorough working test before it leaves the Works. This guarantees that the engine comes to you in perfect working condition, and you have a right to expect many years of efficient service.

I. H. C. gasoline engines are designed to utilize the greatest amount of power from the fuel consumed. Every line of an engine is symmetrical. It looks substantial and is substantial without being clumsy or too heavy.

The I. H. C. Line
I. H. C. Vertical Engines—made in 2, 3 and 5-horse-power sizes. Also in 10, 15, 20, 25, 30, 40, 50, 60, 75, 100, 125, 150, 200, 250, 300, 400, 500, 600, 750, 1000, 1250, 1500, 2000, 2500, 3000, 4000, 5000, 6000, 7500, 10000, 12500, 15000, 20000, 25000, 30000, 40000, 50000, 60000, 75000, 100000, 125000, 150000, 200000, 250000, 300000, 400000, 500000, 600000, 750000, 1000000, 1250000, 1500000, 2000000, 2500000, 3000000, 4000000, 5000000, 6000000, 7500000, 10000000, 12500000, 15000000, 20000000, 25000000, 30000000, 40000000, 50000000, 60000000, 75000000, 100000000, 125000000, 150000000, 200000000, 250000000, 300000000, 400000000, 500000000, 600000000, 750000000, 1000000000, 1250000000, 1500000000, 2000000000, 2500000000, 3000000000, 4000000000, 5000000000, 6000000000, 7500000000, 10000000000, 12500000000, 15000000000, 20000000000, 25000000000, 30000000000, 40000000000, 50000000000, 60000000000, 75000000000, 100000000000, 125000000000, 150000000000, 200000000000, 250000000000, 300000000000, 400000000000, 500000000000, 600000000000, 750000000000, 1000000000000, 1250000000000, 1500000000000, 2000000000000, 2500000000000, 3000000000000, 4000000000000, 5000000000000, 6000000000000, 7500000000000, 10000000000000, 12500000000000, 15000000000000, 20000000000000, 25000000000000, 30000000000000, 40000000000000, 50000000000000, 60000000000000, 75000000000000, 100000000000000, 125000000000000, 150000000000000, 200000000000000, 250000000000000, 300000000000000, 400000000000000, 500000000000000, 600000000000000, 750000000000000, 1000000000000000, 1250000000000000, 1500000000000000, 2000000000000000, 2500000000000000, 3000000000000000, 4000000000000000, 5000000000000000, 6000000000000000, 7500000000000000, 10000000000000000, 12500000000000000, 15000000000000000, 20000000000000000, 25000000000000000, 30000000000000000, 40000000000000000,

The case of Starke and Franklin, real estate agents, vs. the Chamberlain Townsite Co. will be heard in the Supreme Court early in May. The Chamberlain Townsite Co. made an agreement to buy a quarter-section of land from the Macleod Townsite Co. for $1,000 down and $1,000 per month. This quarter section of land is situated close to Edison on the main line of the C.T.P. Railway Company. The Chamberlain Townsite Company now after the second payment wish to call a meeting of the directors to surrender the townsite which they had taken over and discontinue payment. The townsite comprises one thousand lots, one hundred of which have already been sold. Messrs. Starke and Franklin wish the court to declare that the meeting must not be held and that payment must be continued.

Those who attended the lecture given by Mrs. E. K. Broadus of Strathcona, some weeks ago in the Y.W.C.A., will be delighted to hear that another such treat is in store for them. The discussion of the heroines of literature met with such universal appreciation that Mrs. Broadus was asked and has kindly consented to give a series of literary talks. She has chosen for her second subject, "A Group of Old Ballads" and the lectures will be given in the Y.W.C.A. on Tuesday evening, May 10th, at 8:15. The third and last of the series will follow shortly. Refreshments will be served at the conclusion of the address. No admission will be charged, the object of the evening being to promote and cultivate a literary spirit and to bring as many as possible into touch with the Y.W.C.A. All women and girls are welcome and a delightful evening is assured.

Townsmen, N. May 2.—The police here are searching for unknown ghosts who recently forced entrance to two vaults in a cemetery in this city, removing the coffins and searching the bodies evidently for jewelry. How much their ghastly mission netted them has not been ascertained.

At the Empire

The new vaudeville bill which struts with this afternoon's matinee, is without the shadow of a doubt one of the best that has visited Edmonton. The headlines are the Four Emotions, wonderful European acrobats. What these marvellous clever performers don't know about the art of maintaining a perfect equilibrium, isn't worth telling.

The sketch presented by Jas. A. Smith and company, "The Man from Denver," is a novelty in its line, being away from all others. It deals with the rather unusual subject of a hope found in decidedly peculiar circumstances.

Special scenery and a lot of the atmosphere of the piece, and in the hands of Mr. Smith and his clever company it is most realistic both in presentation and the impression it leaves with the audience.

Laypo and Benjamin, a couple of knockabout comedians, have one of the funniest turns imaginable. They are tumblers par excellence but it is in the comedy end of it that they score the big hit.

Charley Harris, "The Gibson Girl" is an eccentric comedian who proved a big winner in Calgary. He has a clever line of entertainment and he handles with the ease of the real performer.

Lewis and Lloyd are a pair of clever singers and dancers whose work has been given some nice press notices by critics.

Edith Wall has a new illustrated song entitled "Everybody's Talking Love" and the Empresscope will show a new lot of motion pictures. Thus, Irving has prepared a dandy overture, "King Midas" and will get the bill away to a fine start.

PRISONER MADE JAIL OFFICIAL

Is Discharged From the Prison Every July and Returns Every November.

Paris, April 29.—It reads like a prison romance, the story of the singular case of M. Boniface, which appears in the Liberté. Though the name Boniface is common to a prisoner, Boniface is to all intents and purposes a state functionary. He gives orders to the warders as though he was the governor, and he takes a summer vacation, returning to jail in the autumn.

Boniface obtained his unique position in this manner. He began his criminal career at Orlan, where, in 1890, he was sentenced to death as a soldier for striking a superior officer. His sentence was commuted to ten years' imprisonment and twenty years' banishment. Amnestied four years later, he went to live in Lyons, where he obtained a good post, married and brought up a family. One day, however, he was arrested for having ignored that part of his sentence relating to his banishment. He was sent back to prison. His wife and children left him.

After serving his new sentence, he came to Paris, where he was again arrested and sent to the Sainte prison for six months. The governor of the prison, noticing the man's position, made him a clerk in the jail. Every July he is discharged with the 200 francs he has earned in the prison, and every November, when the weather becomes cold, he returns to the prison, and takes up his post as clerk again.
